IMPROV COMEDY WORKSHOPS

LAUGHTER IS THE BEST MEDICINE is an understatement when you consider studies in the past decades from John Hopkins, Stanford and others. Laughter alone reduces stress, increases health and inspires positive attitude and trust.

“YES! And...” - the governing rule behind all Improv - gives us a road map to use laughter to overcome anxieties of public presentation and interaction. We learn to listen and focus without ego and insecurity. Workshops are perfect for team building, leadership, sales and service training. These games can be brought into the office to break the ice before meeting or simply add some smiles and laughter to the work environment.

Advanced workshops use Improv to roleplay potential scenarios to teach conflict resolution, management, sales, service and other interactions required by your team.

Bring this training to your office or let us host a lunch or happy hour program at one of our partner comedy clubs and theaters.

In 2015, Google released the findings of its four year study, Project Aristotle. The biggest takeaway is the importance of Psychological Safety to team success. Improvisations #1 rule, "YES! And..." is all about psychological safety. Playing a series of games, Improv teaches us to work together without ego and insecurity. We make bold choices that support and build upon our team's offerings.

YES AND... & PSYCHOLOGICAL SAFETY

PSYCHOLOGICAL SAFETY + PERFORMANCE DRIVE = THE LEARNING ZONE

“YES! And...” is rule #1 in Improvisation. “YES! And...” is all about team communications and performance. Psychological Safety is recognized as the #1 determining factor behind team success. (See Project Aristotle)

“YES!” is all about accepting your colleagues and their contributions to the team. “YES” is Psychological Safety! As we play Improv games we are all equals, regardless of age, experience, race, creed, personality etc. We create a safe space and level playing field for all to play. We accept our colleagues 100% as is. EVERYTHING they say and do. We do not judge. We do not fear.

“AND...” is all about contributing valuable work and information to the team. We are not going to let our colleagues do all the work by simply saying “YES!” We are going to take this to the next level by accepting our colleagues work “AND...” build with our own contributions, supporting everything that comes before our new addition.”AND...” is Performance Drive, coming from within.

When the whole team embraces “YES! And...” we enter the learning zone together. The entire team is now personally engaged in the success of the team. This brings out the best in all of us. We leave ego and insecurity behind. We trust ourselves and our team. We now are hyper focused on team success and its goals. The entire team accepts and overcomes challenges together. We do not fear challenges, we are not overwhelmed. The entire team wins.
